The new Headquarter Sunstar was built on the area of 10.000 m² approximately. The landscape project has two objectives: one is to give the image of a company firm about the promotion of oral and whole body health; the other goal is to meet the needs of working people for the various same usage requirements. On the one hand the need to include the new headquarters in a green and inclusive system that comes off not only visually but also physically roads (highways and municipal roads) and other adjacent buildings; secondly, the connection system from the main road and access to three primary inputs and service has guided the design. In addition to the facilities at external green areas, the project also includes three different gardens located inside the new building in several levels: an Oriental garden on the ground floor of the west facade and the continuity of this green area; and two Roof gardens at the terraces on the second floor.
