The single-family is situated in Lisanza, on the shores of Lago Maggiore, it is designed to integrate with the landscape of Lombardy. The residence was designed with a flexible space able to accommodate an expanding family. The position, orientation and the use of local building materials try to reach the goal for a low environmental impact and external integration with the lake landscape. The cladding materials, natural cut Luserna stone & natural plaster used together with the timber roof and timber glazed façade elements stands as a reinterpretation of the traditional Lombard houses.
