The culture of hospitality is linked to a place, to the territory and to the history of peoples. It speaks of the way people relate to each, the way they welcome one another and the reflects a sense of security and of a preciousness of relationships. The space that welcomes a visitor narrates our history and our present, our traditions, but also a future of reassuring continuity.

This project is designed as a house, as an exclusive residence, where the space that welcomes the visitor speaks of history, of present and future.
